Dear David:

Thank you so much for your informative presentation at FTI's 2009 New Director/Manager School. The participants found the school to be very helpful as they embark on this next major step in their career progression. Your enthusiastic ideas on Relationship Economics provided some great food for thought.

The participants walked away with useful tools to implement as their continued career progression requires increasingly higher achievement in the area of business development. Their feedback indicated they would love the opportunity to spend more time in exploring these methods.

I appreciate your role in making this school a great success!

Sincerely,
